MIN OF JUSTICE ERIC DUPOND MORETTI WENT TO COURTHOUSE OF ROUEN FOR THEIR "GOOD PRACTICES" AGAINST VIOLENCE TO WOMEN-----

-----Tuesday, May 4, a woman was killed in Mérignac (Gironde) by her husband known for acts of violence: he had been imprisoned in 2020 and a new complaint had been filed by the victim in March 2021 after a new assault. It is, of course, with this "heinous crime" in mind that the Minister of Justice Eric Dupond-Moretti organized his sudden trip to Rouen, Friday, May 7, 2021. "A crime that reminds us that the fight against violence to women requires constant vigilance," he commented, leaving the courthouse where he was presented with the operation of support and care for victims - but also the perpetrators - in the region. A court presented as "exemplary" by the Keeper of the Seals, listening to the operation of the device: three magistrates referent for domestic violence, an alert system of the prosecution before the release of the author to ensure follow-up, work on feedback, more fluid communication between institutions to "avoid the loss of information on risk profiles" ... Without forgetting the anti-reconciliation bracelets - which are not, for the moment, used - and the Grave danger telephones (1,300 deployed in France out of the 1,800 available) and, above all, a care center dedicated to the perpetrators of violence. "I am not going to pretend to find out what you are doing here", congratulates Eric Dupond-Moretti, noting the involvement of the prosecution and local institutions.

We have set up a "Google of good practices" for the prosecution. Either way, but in the meantime the drama has occurred: "Zero risk does not exist. And, despite the emotion that grips us, think that you never have the number of feminicides that have been avoided ... "There is no question, however, of discarding:" Of course, we would like there to be no more. homicide. It is not possible but we can tend towards ... Now, the inspection which has been requested in the context of the Mérignac affair must allow us to know exactly, precisely whether the judicial institution has failed or not: if it 'is the case, I wouldn't have a trembling hand. "In Gironde, the alleged perpetrator was followed and was subject to an obligation of care.

I asked how you know Gerald Darmanin (Minister of the Interior) and Marlene Schiappa (State Secretary of legality for men and women) that an inspection be carried out, so that we know exactly, precisely so that we let's be totally invested. IF the judicial institution with regard to my perimeter has failed or not in this matter, and if it is an affirmative rest, bring I will tell you to handle solemnly that I will not have a trembling hand.
