THE STORY :

The film is the sequel to 'The Da Vinci Code' and 'Angels & Demons', is the third installment in the Robert Langdon (Tom Hanks) film series. Professor Robert Langdon (Tom Hanks) awakens in a hospital room in Florence, Italy, with no memory of what has transpired over the last few days, but being plagued with visions of a scorched Earth. Dr. Sienna Brooks (Felicity Jones) reveals that he is suffering from amnesia as a result of a bullet wound to the head and goes with him using clues from Dante's epic poem and various works of art to track down a deadly virus....

In fact, biotech billionaire Bertrand Zobrist (Ben Foster) has become obsessed with humanity's imminent demise through overpopulation, so he has created a huge poison-bomb which will cull 50% of people. He hides it before topping himself and he's left a trail of clues...

OUR REVIEW :

The bestsellers' emphasis on culture and art history is refreshingly high-minded in a way but the concealed clues won't lead you to anything exciting or insightful about Christianity or the Renaissance. There are many apparently sinister and ruthless people after the secret too (and after Langdon).

Although some of the film's many twists are not that surprising, they're satisfyingly delivered. Dante is quoted many times in case any slower readers have failed to grasp the origin of the quote. As in many stories, among all this seeking and finding, this one introduces rogue elements in the shape of the Consortium, a super-powerful private security firm run by Harry Sims ( Irrfan Khan)....
